The release of the updated FSA Test Item Specifications is intended to provide greater specificity for item writers in developing items to be field tested in 2016. The revisions in the specifications will NOT affect the Spring 2015 Florida Standards Assessments. The enhanced explanations, clarifications, and sample items should assist item writers and other stakeholders in understanding the Florida Standards and the various types of test items that can be developed to measure student proficiency in the applicable content areas for 2016 and beyond.
The draft Florida Standards Assessments (FSA) Test Item Specifications (Specifications) are based upon the Florida Standards and the Florida Course Descriptions as provided in CPALMs. The Specifications are a resource that defines the content and format of the test and test items for item writers and reviewers. Each grade-level and course Specifications document indicates the alignment of items with the Florida Standards. It also serves to provide all stakeholders with information about the scope and function of the FSA.

Item Specifications Definitions

Also assesses refers to the standard(s) closely related to the primary standard statement.

Assessment limits define the range of content knowledge and degree of difficulty that should be assessed in the assessment items for the standard(s).

Sample response mechanisms describe the characteristics of various methods for responding to test items.

Task demand describes various types of items that could be written for the standard(s) assessed.

Text types define the genre of texts to be used with the standard(s) assessed.
Florida Standards Assessments

Technology-Enhanced Item Descriptions

The Florida Standards Assessments (FSA) are composed of test items that include traditional multiple-choice items, items that require students to type or write a response, and technology-enhanced items (TEI). Technology-enhanced items are computer-delivered items that require students to interact with test content to select, construct, and/or support their answers.

Currently, there are eight types of TEIs that may appear on FSA ELA assessments. For Grades 3 and 4 assessments, which will be paper-based tests in 2014-2015, and for students with an IEP or 504 plan that specifies a paper-based accommodation, TEIs will be modified or replaced with test items that can be scanned and scored electronically.

The various TEI item types are described below, including the percentage of each computer-based test that will be composed of TEIs.

For samples of each of the item types described below, see the FSA Training Tests.

| Percent of Computer-Based Test that is Composed of Technology-Enhanced Items |
|---|---|
| Grades 5–10 ELA* | 25%–50% |

*Grades 3 and 4 ELA tests, once computer based, will also be composed of 25%–50% TEIs.

Technology-Enhanced Item Types for English Language Arts

1. Editing Task Choice - The student clicks a highlighted word or phrase, which reveals a drop-down menu containing options for correcting an error as well as the highlighted word or phrase as it is shown in the sentence to indicate that no correction is needed. The student then selects the correct word or phrase from the drop-down menu. For paper-based assessments, the item is modified so that it can be scanned and scored electronically. The student fills in a circle to indicate the correct word or phrase.

2. Editing Task - The student clicks on a highlighted word or phrase that may be incorrect, which reveals a text box. The directions in the text box direct the student to replace the highlighted word or phrase with the correct word or phrase. For paper-based assessments, this item type will be replaced with another item type that assesses the same standard and can be scanned and scored electronically.

3. Hot Text -
   a. Selectable Hot Text - Excerpted sentences from the text are presented in this item type. When the student hovers over certain words, phrases, or sentences, the options highlight. This indicates that the text is selectable (“hot”). The student can then click on an option to select it. These items may have one or two parts. In a two-part hot text item, Part A might ask the student to make an analysis or an inference, and Part B might require the student to use the text to support the answer in Part A. In other cases, the two parts might function independently. For paper-based assessments, a “selectable” hot text item is modified so that it can be scanned and scored electronically. In this version, the student fills in a circle to indicate a selection.

b. Drag-and-Drop Hot Text - Certain words, phrases, or sentences may be designated “draggable” in this item type. When the student hovers over these areas, the text highlights. The student can then click on the option, hold down the mouse button, and drag it to a graphic organizer or other format. For paper-based assessments, drag-and-drop hot text items will be replaced with another item type that assesses the same standard and can be scanned and scored electronically.

4. Open Response - The student uses the keyboard to enter a response into a text field. These items can usually be answered in a sentence or two. For paper-based assessments, this item type may be replaced with another item type that assesses the same standard and can be scanned and scored electronically.

5. Multiselect - The student is directed to select all of the correct answers from among a number of options. These items are different from multiple-choice items, which allow the student to select only one correct answer. These items appear in the online and paper-based assessments.

6. Evidence-Based Selected Response (EBSR) - In this two-part item, the student is directed to select the correct answers from Part A and Part B. Typically Part A is multiple-choice, whereas Part B may be either multiple-choice or multiselect. Part A often asks the student to make an analysis or an inference, and Part B requires the student to use the text to support the answer in Part A. These items appear in the online and paper-based assessments.

7. Graphic Response Item Display (GRID) - In a GRID item, the student might select words, phrases, or images and use the drag-and-drop feature to place them into a graphic organizer or other format. For paper-based assessments, this item type may be replaced with another item type that assesses the same standard and can be scanned and scored electronically.

8. Multimedia - Technology-enhanced content may include multimedia elements such as audio clips, slideshows, or animations. Multimedia elements may appear within passages (stimuli) or test items. For paper-based assessments, multimedia content will be replaced by paper-based items or stimuli that assess the same reporting category.
Reading Stimuli Guidelines

Overall Description
A stimulus may consist of one or more texts. The texts may be informational or literary and may cover a wide array of topics. Multimedia elements may include audio presentations, slideshows, or graphical elements.

Stimulus Attributes
The complexity of the texts used as stimuli should be accessible for the applicable grade. Text complexity analysis incorporates a variety of factors. Quantitative measures are one element of text complexity evaluation, but they are not the sole determinant of grade-level appropriateness. Other factors, such as purpose, structure, and language complexity, are also considered. In choosing the text(s), qualitative and quantitative dimensions of text complexity must be balanced by the task considerations required of the reader. Graphics such as infographics, photographs, tables, and diagrams may be included with the stimuli. The graphics used, however, must be purposeful and should supplement the student's understanding of the topic. During the text review process, Florida educators use professional judgment and experience to determine whether the reading level of each selection is suitable for the grade level.

Texts used as stimuli should be interesting and appealing to students at the grades for which the selections are intended. They should be conceptually appropriate and relevant and should reflect literary or real-world settings and events that are interesting to students and not limited to classroom or school-related situations. Texts with controversial or offensive content should not be included. Confusing or emotionally charged subjects should also be avoided. References to trademarks, commercial products, and brand names should be checked by the contractor's legal department for permission to use. If there is any question about the accuracy of content, the Florida Department of Education (FLDOE) may require at least two additional sources to verify the information in the text.

The length and complexity of texts should vary within each grade-level assessment. The table below suggests an approximate word count range for a text or text set.

LAFS.8.L.3.4: Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words or phrases based on grade 8 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies.
  a. Use context (e.g., the overall meaning of a sentence or paragraph; a word’s position or function in a sentence) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase.

LAFS.8.L.3.5: Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings.
  a. Interpret figures of speech (e.g., verbal irony, puns) in context.
  b. Use the relationship between particular words to better understand each of the words.
  c. Distinguish among the connotations (associations) of words with similar denotations (definitions) (e.g., bullheaded, willful, firm, persistent, resolute). |
| Assessment Limits | Items should focus on grade-appropriate words. Items should not focus on dictionary word meanings but should focus on how the words and phrases function within the context of the passage. Items should focus on words and phrases that have figurative or allusive meanings central to the meaning of the text rather than isolated, incidental vocabulary. Items may ask about words with discrete context clues in close proximity or words whose meaning is conveyed more implicitly throughout the passage. Items may ask students to employ various strategies to explore word meaning, including the application of context clues, roots, or affixes. Items may require students to make connections between words and to delve into figurative or connotative meanings. Items should not include obscure analogies or allusions. |

LAFS.8.L.3.5: Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings.
a. Interpret figures of speech (e.g., verbal irony, puns) in context.
b. Use the relationship between particular words to better understand each of the words.
c. Distinguish among the connotations (associations) of words with similar denotations (definitions) (e.g., bullheaded, willful, firm, persistent, resolute). |

Text-Based Writing Stimulus and Prompt Guidelines

Writing Prompt Specifications

Overall Task Description

Students will read a stimulus about a single topic. A stimulus consists of several texts written on a single topic. The stimulus should consist of informational or literary fiction or nonfiction texts and may cover a wide array of topics. After reading the stimulus, the students will respond to a writing prompt in which they will provide information on a topic or take a stance to support an opinion or argument.

Stimulus Attributes

The complexity of the texts used as stimuli should be accessible for the applicable grade. While this is primarily a writing test, a grade-appropriate level of literacy is required. In choosing the text(s), qualitative and quantitative dimensions of text complexity must be balanced by the task considerations required of the reader. Graphics such as infographics, photographs, tables, and diagrams may be included with the stimuli. The graphics used, however, must be purposeful to the task and should supplement the student’s understanding of the topic. During the text review process, Florida educators use professional judgment and experience to determine whether the reading level of each selection is suitable for the grade level.

The stimuli for the informative/explanatory prompts should maintain a clear topical connection but may address diverse concepts and ideas. Stimuli for the opinion/argumentative prompts should present opposing points of view. Each point of view should be equally represented so that a student can take either side of a position. Thorough and convincing support for the controlling ideas must be evident in all stimuli.

Texts used as stimuli should be interesting and appealing to students at the grades for which the selections are intended. They should be conceptually appropriate and relevant and should reflect real-world settings and events that are interesting to students and are not limited to classroom or school-related situations. Texts with controversial or offensive content should not be included. Confusing or emotionally charged subjects should also be avoided. References to trademarks, commercial products, and brand names should be checked by the contractor’s legal department for permission to use. If there is any question about the accuracy of content, the Florida Department of Education (FLDOE) may require at least two additional sources to verify the information in the text.
Text-Based Writing Stimulus and Prompt Guidelines

The stimulus will consist of two to four texts. The approximate combined word count of the text sets is listed in the table below.

<table>

<th>Grade Level</th>
<th>Minimum Word Count</th>
<th>Maximum Word Count</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>1000</td>
<td>1800</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The stimulus will be presented along with a writing prompt that asks students to write an essay about the topic. The students will be required to synthesize information from the text sets and must cite specific evidence from the texts to support their ideas.

For the informative/explanatory writing prompts, students will be required to synthesize and analyze ideas from the stimuli to develop and support a controlling idea.

For the opinion/argumentative writing prompts, students will be required to synthesize and analyze ideas and evidence from stimuli. They will use these ideas to present and support an opinion (grades 4–5) or to argue and support a claim (grades 6–10).

Passage 1: from King Arthur’s Knights
by Henry Gilbert

In this excerpt from King Arthur’s Knights, the mythical King Arthur of Britain and his Knights of the Round Table receive a mysterious visitor at court. The visitor brings news about the quest for the Holy Grail, a powerful and mysterious artifact.

1. Then the door opened and an old and reverend man entered, white of beard and head, and clothed also in white . . .

2. “Peace be with you, fair lords,” said the old man. Then turning to the king he said:

3. “Sir, I bring here a young knight, the which is of king’s lineage, whereby the marvels of this court shall be accomplished, and the trial of this thy kingdom shall be brought to a happy end, if that may be. And the name of him is Galahad.”

4. “Sir,” said the king, “ye be right welcome and the young knight with you.”

5. Then was the young man led by the reverend man to the Siege Perilous,¹ and sat him thereon, and men marvelled to see that the death-stroke did not flash like lightning and slay him.

6. “Sir,” said the old man to him, “wit ye well that that is your seat. For you are he that shall surely achieve the Holy Graal,² and such of these your fellows as are pure in heart and humble shall achieve it with you.”

7. “Sir,” said the king, “if it may be that ye know, will ye tell us what my knights must do to achieve the Holy Vessel, and thus bring peace into my kingdom in place of war? For many of those that are kings and barons under me are warring with each other, and threaten to rend this island of Britain . . . . And it goeth to my heart to know this, and I have much dread.”

8. “Sir king,” said the old white man, “none may tell you what shall be the end of this quest of the Holy Graal, . . . ye war with each other, and are evil livers and full of pride and mastery, and if ye do not repent and stay your dishonour, then shall the Holy Vessel pass from Britain, and ruin and death and civil war shall stalk through the land and leave it desolate.”

9 Then uprose Sir Gawaine, who was a faithful knight and true man to his king, though a proud one and a hasty. He was filled with sorrow for the ruin that threatened his fair land.

10 “Now I do here avow,” he said, “that to-morrow, without fail, I shall set forth, and I shall labour with all the strength of my body and my soul to go in quest of the Holy Graal, so that if I be fit to see it and to bring it hither, this dear land may be saved from woe.”

11 So hot were his words that many of the better knights rose also, and raising their right hands did make a like avowal . . . .

Passage 1: Environment Matters Podcast

Listen to the following podcast about compact fluorescent light bulbs.

“Environment Matters Podcast” from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. In the public domain.

Passage 2: Compact Fluorescent Lamps (CFLs)—Fact Sheet/FAQ by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration

What are compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs)?

1. CFLs are a type of fluorescent lamp. Many models of CFLs are available that are designed to replace traditional incandescent bulbs. The compact size of these CFLs allows them to fit into many existing incandescent light fixtures, including table and floor lamps commonly found in households. CFLs are very energy efficient, using approximately one quarter of the energy compared to traditional incandescent bulbs. CFLs also have a very long lifespan, typically 6000–15,000 hours compared to the 750–1,000 hours for a normal incandescent bulb.

Do CFLs emit UV?¹

2. All fluorescent lamps emit some UV. Typical fluorescent lamps, including CFLs, which consumers would encounter, emit very low levels of UV. In order to measure any UV radiation from these lamps, very sensitive measuring equipment must be used.

How do I know that the level of UV is acceptably low from a CFL?
Appendix A: Sample Passages and Items – Informational

3 The Illuminating Engineering Society of North America (IESNA) has published a series of standards relating to radiation emissions from general purpose lighting. If a CFL were to exceed allowable levels of UV (according to IESNA RP 27.3), its packaging would be required to be labeled with a caution label. This standard, which was developed with the assistance of the FDA, requires lamp manufacturers to provide a suitable caution if one is needed. At typical use distances, UV levels from CFLs fall below the level of general concern for normal, healthy individuals and therefore carry no such warning.

How close can we safely get to an operating CFL?

4 Unless you are one of the few individuals who have a medical condition (such as some forms of lupus) that makes you particularly sensitive to either UV or even visible light, you should be able to use these lamps at the same distance as you would use traditional incandescent lamps. However, a recent study from the United Kingdom Health Protection Agency has found that there are measurable levels of UV from single envelope CFLs when used at distances closer than 1 foot. As a precaution, it is recommended that these types of CFLs not be used at distances closer than 1 foot, for more than one hour per day.

Are there precautions I can take to reduce the small levels of UV from CFLs still further if I should wish to do so?

5 The glass used in CFLs already provides a UV filtering effect. In addition, any additional glass, or plastic, or fabric used in lighting fixtures that is between you and the CFL will further reduce the already low levels to still lower levels since these materials act as additional UV filters. Increasing the distance between you and any radiation source, including CFLs, will also reduce the small level to a lower level.

6 However, if you still wish to take additional steps then you might wish to purchase the type of CFL that has an additional glass or plastic cover that encloses the CFL to make it appear more like a traditional incandescent lamp. These covers provide an additional reduction of the low level of UV to a lower level.

Any other safety concerns? I have heard CFLs contain mercury. Should I be concerned?
Appendix A: Sample Passages and Items – Informational

7. Like traditional tube-style fluorescent lamps, CFLs contain a small amount of mercury. It is the use of this small amount of mercury that allows any fluorescent lamp to produce visible illumination at much higher efficiency levels than incandescent lighting. Typical household CFLs contain less than 5 mg of mercury, which is a sphere about the size of the tip of a pen. CFLs do not emit mercury as they operate. The only way mercury could be emitted from a CFL would be if the outer glass tubing that contains the mercury were to break.

8. Care should be taken not to break a CFL. If you break one, you should carefully clean up the entire residue according to EPA instructions that you can find at http://www.epa.gov/mercury/spills/index.htm

What about other potential adverse health effects from CFLs? I have seen some claims that CFLs cause headaches in some people. Is this true?

9. The vast majority of CFL users, both in households and in commercial buildings, report no issues regarding CFL usage, including headaches. There are some anecdotal reports, however, and, although there is yet no research to directly explain any plausible causative mechanism, it may be possible that some people are susceptible to such headache effects just as some people claim to be annoyed by normal fluorescent lighting. However, the overwhelming numbers of people that use CFLs report no such negative effects. FDA expects that research in this area will continue, and, as any new information develops, it will be included in an updated FAQ.

1UV: ultraviolet radiation, a form of energy found in sunlight and some types of lamps. UV can affect the health of humans in either positive or negative ways, depending on the type and the amount of exposure to it.

2Mercury: a metallic element that exists as a liquid at normal temperatures. Often used in thermometers, mercury can be poisonous to humans under certain conditions.

The compact size of these CFLs allows them to fit into many existing incandescent light fixtures, including table and floor lamps commonly found in households. CFLs are very energy efficient, using approximately one quarter of the energy compared to traditional incandescent bulbs. CFLs also have a very long lifespan, typically 6000–15,000 hours compared to the 750–1,000 hours for a normal incandescent bulb.

Sample Item 2
LAFS.8.RI.1.2
This question has two parts. First, answer Part A. Then, answer Part B.

Part A

What is the central idea of Passage 2?

- A CFLs offer an inexpensive, more practical choice for consumers.
- B CFLs have many advantages over traditional light bulbs.
- C CFLs are a new, more efficient type of light bulb.
- D CFLs are very safe for people to use.

Part B

How is the central idea developed throughout Passage 2?

- A by comparing and contrasting CFLs with traditional bulbs
- B by detailing the way in which CFLs generate light
- C by responding to reported concerns about CFLs
- D by listing the various benefits of using CFLs
Appendix A: Sample Passages and Items – Informational

Sample Item 3
LAFS.8.RI.1.3
How does the diagram in Passage 3 distinguish between the different types of light bulbs?

A. by showing the replacement costs associated with each type of light bulb
B. by showing the overall energy costs associated with each type of light bulb
C. by showing the amount of energy generated by each type of light bulb per hour of use
D. by showing the amount of waste generated by each type of light bulb when each is recycled

Sample Item 4
LAFS.8.RI.2.4
This question has two parts. First, answer Part A. Then, answer Part B.

Part A
What is the tone of paragraph 7 in Passage 2?

A) dismissive
B) reassuring
C) uplifting
D) fearful

Part B
Select the sentence from paragraph 7 that most clearly contributes to this tone.

7 Like traditional tube-style fluorescent lamps, CFLs contain a small amount of mercury. It is the use of this small amount of mercury that allows any fluorescent lamp to produce visible illumination at much higher efficiency levels than incandescent lighting. Typical household CFLs contain less than 5 mg of mercury, which is a sphere about the size of the tip of a pen. CFLs do not emit mercury as they operate. The only way mercury could be emitted from a CFL would be if the outer glass tubing that contains the mercury were to break.
Sample Item 5
LAFS.8.RI.2.5

This question has two parts. First, answer Part A. Then, answer Part B.

Part A
Select the sentence from paragraph 5 of Passage 2 that offers general safety advice about exposure to UV.

5 The glass used in CFLs already provides a UV filtering effect. In addition, any additional glass, or plastic, or fabric used in lighting fixtures that is between you and the CFL will further reduce the already low levels to still lower levels since these materials act as additional UV filters. Increasing the distance between you and any radiation source, including CFLs, will also reduce the small level to a lower level.

Part B
What key idea from Passage 2 does the sentence chosen in Part A support?

A) CFLs fail to adequately filter exposure to UV.

B) There are additional ways to lessen exposure to UV.

C) CFLs expose people to less UV than other types of bulbs.

D) There are many lighting fixtures that block exposure to UV.
Sample Item 6
LAFS.8.RI.2.6

This question has two parts. First, answer Part A. Then, answer Part B.

Part A
What is the interviewer’s purpose in Passage 1?
- A to find solutions to the dangers posed by CFLs
- B to explore the costs and benefits of using CFLs
- C to question consumers about their opinion of CFLs
- D to promote the use of CFLs over incandescent bulbs

Part B
How does the interviewer achieve her purpose in Passage 1?
- A by asking questions of people who support and people who oppose CFL use
- B by asking questions that emphasize advantages of and minimize concerns about CFLs
- C by limiting the questions to those addressing health and safety concerns related to CFLs
- D by limiting the questions to those addressing consumer misunderstandings about switching to CFLs

Sample Item 7
LAFS.8.RI.3.7

Select two advantages of using audio in Passage 1 to present information about CFLs.

- [ ] It allows listeners to connect with other people as they share real-world experiences with CFLs.
- [ ] It allows listeners to rely on tone of voice in order to better understand each speaker’s point of view about CFLs.
- [ ] It allows listeners to interpret the conversational nature of the podcast in a way that makes CFLs seem less threatening.
- [ ] It allows listeners to easily distinguish between viewpoints about CFLs by associating each viewpoint with a different speaker.
- [ ] It allows listeners to be swayed by the emotional and personal appeals each speaker makes about CFLs throughout the podcast.

Sample Item 8
LAFS.8.RI.3.8

The podcast guest in Passage 1 makes several claims about CFLs. Which claim is offered without sufficient supporting evidence?

- A CFLs provide significant energy savings compared to incandescent bulbs.
- B Using CFLs is better for the environment than using incandescent bulbs.
- C The small amount of mercury in CFLs presents little risk to consumers.
- D CFLs are easy to dispose of when they eventually burn out.

There are five highlights in the essay to show which word or phrase may be incorrect. For each highlight, type in the correction.

Julia gazed out on the blue—nothing but blue for days. "Blue is better than storms," the ship's captain warned her. She remembered looking at the big, blue space on the map indicating the Pacific Ocean. That preview had not prepared her. This trip was showing her the true size of the Pacific.

Julia and her parents were headed for Palmerston Island, due west of Tahiti. Palmerston is part of the Cook Islands, has 62 residents, and is one of the most isolated inhabited places on the planet. The only way to get there is by boat even in the twenty-first century.

Her parents were anthropologists. Study various cultures throughout the world was their mission. Every few years, the family moved for one of their "great adventures." The only regularly scheduled ship visited Palmerston twice a year to pick up fish and drop off supplies. Her family will be stuck there for at least six months, and her parents planned to make it a year.

For nine days they had seen only ocean: no ships, no planes, not even wildlife. Then—Land! She grabbed the binoculars and saw small, modern houses. Her parents had told her there would be electricity and Internet, if only for a few hours a day, but she would not believed them until now. She never thought she would be happy to stay in one place for six months, but if it meant being off this boat, happy she was!
